

ACURA HANDSFREE LINK DEFECT CLASS ACTION (“HFL CLASS ACTION”)

A nationwide settlement has been reached in Canada for certain current and former owners and lessees of certain model year Acura vehicles.

The Settlement is about an alleged defective hands-free-calling system that causes an electrical draw that may damage the battery or alternator in certain 2004 – 2011 Acura vehicles.

You have Legal Rights under the Settlement that are affected even if you do nothing.

Class Members:

ALL PERSONS IN CANADA, EXCLUDING QUEBEC, WHO:

are current or former owners or lessees of the following Acura model vehicles:

MODEL	MODEL YEARS
ACURA TL	2004 – 2008
ACURA MDX	2007 – 2011
ACURA RDX	2007 – 2008
ACURA ZDX	2008 - 2011

The class action (Gill v. Honda Canada Inc., et al Action No. S-177374, the “Action”) was certified by the Supreme Court of British Columbia and is brought on behalf of class members across Canada, except the Province of Quebec. The Supreme Court of British Columbia still has to decide whether to approve the Settlement. If the court approves the Settlement, the Settlement will become effective on the Effective Date, which is defined in the Settlement Agreement. The benefits described in the Settlement Agreement will be available to those who are eligible only after the Effective Date.

You may be eligible for benefits including:

- expenses incurred for repair or replacement HandsFreelink (“HFL”) unit in Affected Class Vehicles as a result of the HFL Issues to a maximum amount of $500;
- expenses incurred for disconnecting the HFL unit in Affected Class Vehicles as a result of specific issues with the HFL Unit to a maximum of $350
